THE ROUTE TO WESTERN CHINA. The manager of a tea estate at Sudiva writes on the route from Rangoon to Western China: -"I am anxious to call attention to what has always appeared to me, during my residence in Upper Assam, as a better, though apparently little considered, route than that through Bormah-namely, the one that for the most part, of the way nature has made for us, and which pootra river. To any one looking at the map. the advantages of this track are evident, when the fact is taken into consideration that the Brahmapootra is pavigable all the year through as iar up as Driroughur, about 27 deg. 30 min. to steamers drawing five feet, and up to Endiya, close under 28 deg, to vessels drawing about three feet of water; for the Irrawaddy, I read in your article, is only navigable up to Bhamo, and for vessels only drawing three feet of water. Now, Bhamo lies under 24 deg., I believe; so we have the Brahmapootra navigable 250 miles. say, further north and nearer China and Thibet than the Irrawaddy. Again, the distance to the sea from Sudiya, notwithstanding the above gain of 250 miles, is, I should think, almost less than the distance from Bhamo to the sea, owing to the southerly position of the mouth of the Irrawaddy at Rangoon. Then it must be remembered that this route is really in our own possession, and in a settled and peaceable district, and that, consequently, the quantity of unsettled country that remains between us and Ching in the one direction, and Thibet in the other, is comparatively very little, and only inhabited by the most primitive of savages who have just lately, in our Naga Expedition, shown how little they need be considered as an obstacle to any real effort. Having the river to Sudiya, of course, means lose expense in roadmaking than the Bhamo fonte would require; and road-making in those climates is a neverending business, owing to the rapid growth of jungle encroaching upon the roads. It must not be forgotten that the very few explorers who have tried this track have tried, it with serious odds against them individually. Mr. T. T. Cooper the last, was a stranger, and thought to had (according to his book, the 'Mishmee Hilla") travelled a great distance when he arrived at Sudiya, and managed to find matter for almost three quarters of his book before he got there. When I say that I am one among several magagers who live in isolated teaactories within twelve or fourteen miles of Sudiya, without the need of any protection other than the small frontier outpost of 100 sepoys at Sudiya affords. I think it will go a long way to show that the route I propose, from the fact of the sattled condition of the natives alone, for such a much longer distance The Daily News says it may now be assumed than by the Bhamo route, recommends it to

It is evident that had Michelet intended anything else he would have named the churchyard, to wit. Père Lachaise. It is lamentable that this dispute should have arisen; nor can one well conceive why Mdme. Michelet should be so anxious to have the remains removed to Paris, where so many tombs have been mee-hop-kee to local trader. descorated.

The Historic Museum of Versailles is, the

Academy tells us, in a state of complete disorganization since the National Assembly has chosen the palace of Louis XIV. for its residence. The 171 apartments which were open to the public are now reduced to 29, the Actional Assembly baving taken possession of the others for its offices, and a provisional chamber being new in preparation for the sittings of the Senate. Thus this fine museum, founded to commemorate the national look-wo to travelling trader. glory, no longer exists. The paintings and statues are all piled one upon another in the Sallo du Jou de Paume. What is to be done with the collection? SINGULAR ACTION AGAINST THE HEIRS OF NAPOLEON III. The Civil Tribunal of the Seine has given judgment on the claim of MM. Plon, publishers A singular fact is recorded relative to the of the "Life of Casar," against the heirs of Napoleon III., for damages sustained by the stituted for the French Maritime and Fluvial non-completion of that work. The plaintiffs claimed the return of 1,521f., the copyright paid be found, and it is not known to what address on the volumes sold since October, 1867, as a set-off against warehousing charges and the payment of 167,418f, for unsold copies, the expenses of French and Spanish editions, and sums paid by them for translations, not recovered from German and Swedish publishers. It appears that while an edition de luce was got graphy of President Lincoln," of a more ex- up at the Imprimerie Nationale, the Emperor accorded to M. Plon the right of issuing other editions as a return, it was alleged, for the sacrifices imposed on him by previous Imporial publications. He was authorised to issue three editions, including a obeap one at 4f., the maximum number of copies in all being fixed at 80,000. A certain sum was payable as copyright on each copy, and up to 1867 192,484f, was paid who however, distributed it among those who and assisted him in the work. The first volume appeared in 1864, and the second in 1865, but, according to the plaintiffs, the sule slackened on the completion of the work becoming doubtful, and since 1870 scarcely 25 copies per annum have been disposed of. The result is that they have 22,000 copies on hand, and they demanded permission to sell them off at any price. Their contention was that the preamble of the contract-" The Emperor is author of a worl entitled The Life of Julius Casar' implied a complete work, whereas long before 1870 its osecution had been abandoned. GOOD NIGHT! BY THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH. Good night! I have to say good night To such a host of paerless things ! Good night unto that fragile hand All queenly with its weight of rings. Good night to fond, uplifted eyes, Good night to chestnut braids of hair; Good night unto the perfect mouth, And all the sweetness nestled there-The snowy hand detains me, then I'll have to say good night again! But there will come a time, my love,

When, if I read our stars aright, I shall not linger by this porch With my adicus. Till then, good night! You wish the time were now? And I. You do not blush to wish it so? You would have blushed yourself to death To own so much a year ago— What both these snewy hands! ah, then Ell have to say good night again!
